Expanding access to care for vulnerable populations

St. Joseph Medical Center is a 374-bed tertiary Level II Trauma medical center with a family birth center, a Level III NICU, and a new midwifery center, as well as 24/7 emergency services and numerous specialty services like stroke and neurology care, cancer care, heart and vascular care, a Hospice program and Hospice House, neurosciences services, and Gamma Knife radiosurgery.

St. Joseph Medical Center is part of Virginia Mason Franciscan Health, a nonprofit health system that was created when CHI Franciscan and Virginia Mason merged in January 2021. One of the largest health systems in Washington state, Virginia Mason Franciscan Health includes 11 acute care hospitals, 289 outpatient centers, 15 urgent and prompt care clinics, Franciscan Hospice House, the Bailey-Boushay House, and the Benaroya Research Institute.

The 340B Drug Pricing Program helps expand access to care and stretch scarce health care dollars to deliver high-quality care to vulnerable patient populations, including low income, uninsured, underinsured, and homeless patients, as well as those living in rural communities. In addition, the 340B Program allows hospitals to offset uncompensated care and provide expensive medications free of cost, while focusing on safe, cost-effective care that results in improved patient outcomes.
